
Programme:
New Tools for old Problems

10:00–10:15

Welcome

10:15–11:00

Patrizia Heindl, Carl Elkins

Understanding Heka.

An approach to creative concepts for Egyptian sculpture using 3D models

11:00–11:45

Nina Wagenknecht

The “corpus based“ way to Ancient Egyptian semantics:
An insight into the applicability of corpus-based studies on Egyptian lexemes (case study $jt(j)$ ‘to take‘)

11:45–12:00

Review

12:00–13:00

Lunch break

13:00–13:45

Christiane Wagner

Visuelle Kommunikation und Medien.

Transformationsprozesse des globalen metropolitanen Rhythmus

13:45–14:30

Michele Lange

Quantifizierung römischer Münzprägung als Mittel zur Untersuchung
antiker Repräsentations- und Kommunikationsprozesse

14:30–14:45

Review

14:45–15:15

Coffee break

15:15–16:00

Matthias Aßenmacher, Christian Heumann

Large Pre-trained Language Models – can social sciences also benefit from recent developments in NLP?

16:00–16:45

Jim Salmons, Timlynn Babitsky

#MAGAZINEgts, A Self-Descriptive Ground Truth Storage Format
for Serial Publications Supporting Dynamically Configured Machine Learning and Hybrid Machine/Human Workflows

16:45–17:00

Review

17:00–17:30

Coffee break

17:30–18:00

Concluding discussion and remarks

19:00 – 20:00

Evening lecture

Jacqueline Klusik-Eckert

Hindsight is 20/20 – Methods and tools for researching copies

Digital meet-up until 21:00.

#NewToolsOldProblems